Spanish: Iberoamérica | Portuguese: Ibero-América

Iberian America is a region in the Americas comprising countries or territories where Spanish or Portuguese are the predominant languages, usually former territories of Portugal or Spain where the mountainous Iberian Peninsula can be found.

As early as 1522, a variety of common grape-vine called the Vitis Vinifera was brought from Spain to the Americas via Mexico by the Spanish conquistadors. Later issued by official order to all new Spanish settlers to plant vines on lands that had been granted to them, the spread of viticulture followed the Spanish conquests to humble new beginnings in South America.

Australia was first introduced to wine when grape vines arrived along with the First Fleet in 1788 via South America and the Cape of Good Hope, South Africa. As modern day vinous conquistadors, we bring to you some of our favourite expressions of fruit from Australia and abroad, closely associated and drawing inspiration from the Iberian, intrepid travellers who vowed to remain hydrated and merry!

Salud.
